> THE Chinese Post Office at Wuhn is a source of great annoyance to the Commissioner of Uustoms there, for everyone avails himself of the institution, and not unfrequently it is resorted to as a medium for the transmission of contraband goods. The Post Office officials have an understanding with the people belonging to the steamers that trade with the port, and every time a steamer leaves, a large bundle of articles is put on board at the last moment. that should properly be passed through the Customs. A short time ago the Commissioner notified the postal officers that nothing could go through their hands except mails, and parcels subject to search by the Customs authorities, in which, should soy contraband articles be found, the parcels would be confiscated. One day recently a man sent a small package of gold leaf through the Post Office, which was promptly seized by the Customs. The sender protested against the seizure alleging that gold lest was bullion, and could properly be transmitted through the Post. Office. > NEWCHWANG is, next to Tientsin, the most important port in the North, enjoying large export trade of various articles o Native produce. It is a thriving place in every way, the only draw-back to it being the want of pure water, a thing that it has hitherto been almost impossible at times to procure. The inhabitants of the port and adjacent districts are obliged sometimes to go a distance of 10 is in quest of a drop of this indispensable article, and when they got it, too frequently it is anything but unpolluted. The old method was to convey the water into the city in dirty boats from distant parts of the country, for the creeks and springs in the immediate neighourhood of Newchwang contain a large admixture of salt, which renders the water taken from them undrinkable. But there is now a fair promise of having all this changed, for a number of local Chinese of influence and wealth, have made overtures to the Foreign residents to join them in a scheme for the document to him. Bridges have been thrown across the larger broaches so that, within the past ten days, cart traffic between here and Peking has been resumed. and we are permitted to hope that our Oustoms mail service to and from the capital will be as regular as in ordinary yours is their work. On the east bank of the river nothing has been done, and the breaches remain as they were A few days ago it was currently reported that H.E. Li Hung-chang would spend thowinter in Pao-ting-foo, his provincial capital: but he has had to give up the idea on account of the enfeebled state of his heal h. According to latest advices from Peking. the Seventh Prince is making a wonderful recovery, and it is believed that he will shortly be strong enough to give his attencessity for enforcing the Edict issued on the 14th ult , inviting Prince Kung to return to

The big loan still remains in pendulo, Neither the Germans nor the other Foreign to a conclusion, for the Chinese Government dread to conclude a loan which will have to be repaid in gold, while the Kuropean capitalists naturally refuse to secont repayment in silver, in view of the uncertain state of exchange. The Chinese are willing enough to accept a loan on a silver basis with certain stipulations as to the supply of railway materials, one half to Germany and I the other half from other quarters, which really means from Great Britain, but the Germans will not hear of this. Already the first instalment of the 2 million annual contribution from the 18 provinces has been remitted to the Board of Revenue in scourdence with last year's Edict. The Tsung it Tailen has advised the Throne to wait until the whole of the 10 millions is collected before commencing to build the Peking-Tientsin line, but the Government seems just now to have more pressing mutters claiming their attention in the reclaiming of the flooded areas in the metropolitan province, and the prevention of further floods along the Peiho River. Plans and estimates for both these works have been laid before the Throne by Li Hung-chang and also by the Hai Chun. or Board of Defences. It is believed that the reclaiming of the Peibo, and the work of connecting Tientsin with the capital by a railway, will be proceeded with simultaneously. It is also said that Sir Robert Bart and H. E. Von Brandt are deeply interested in both matters, from which fact it is hoped that we may see the into thin air, as so many of their recent predecessors have done. The requisition of Li Han-chang for four torpedo-boats for the South has been placed here by his brother Li Hung-chang in the hands of four firms, Mesers Mandi & Co. Carlowitz & Co., Telge & Co., and Michie & Co. The busts are to be delivered next
